REMARKS

This is UNEVALUATED Information

25X1

1. Between 1200 and 1430 on 8 January 1955, guns and motor vehicles seen in the parking lot of the Flak Kaserne in Kagran included 3 medium AA guns, 8 x 37-mm AA guns, 5 van-like trucks, including one mounting a tripod with dipole support and 25 trucks, Soldiers were drilling with one of the medium AA guns which was in travelling position. 25X1
2. The fuel dump was guarded by a sentry wearing red-bordered black epaulets. Twelve tank trucks and 1 tank truck trailer were parked under the lean-to roofs. A total of 18 standard fuel containers and 14 containers, 150 cm long and 75 cm in diameter, were stored in the dump. Two 37-mm AA guns were emplaced in the southern corner of the fuel dump. The emplacements probably were model emplacements. The earthwork was very exact and signs with the numbers 1 through 12 were posted on the earthwalls around the guns.
1. Comment. For sketch of the device mounted on the van-like truck, see Annex. A similar device was reported previously from East Germany. How this device is utilized by the AAA is unknown. Efforts have been initiated to obtain detailed information. 25X1
2. Comment. The barracks installation appears to be still occupied by a reinforced AAA battalion. 25X1
